

Foolish tree

Long ago, in a forest there were two huge trees. Many wild animals lived in its shade.

The wild animals for their food killed other smaller animals. They left carcasses behind which causes a foul stench all around.

I feel suffocated
by the smell. I can't bear it any longer! I'll drive these animals away.

Oh, no! Don't do this. The wild animals protect us and keep men away!

No just imagine,
how the pure and fresh
the air will be !

I'll do it!
I'll drive them away.

Oh, My friend!
You don't know what you are doing!

One night there was a strong breeze...

This is the chance for me...

The tree shook itself vigorously making loud sound.

That awakened the animals sleeping beneath the tree. The animals ran away of fear.

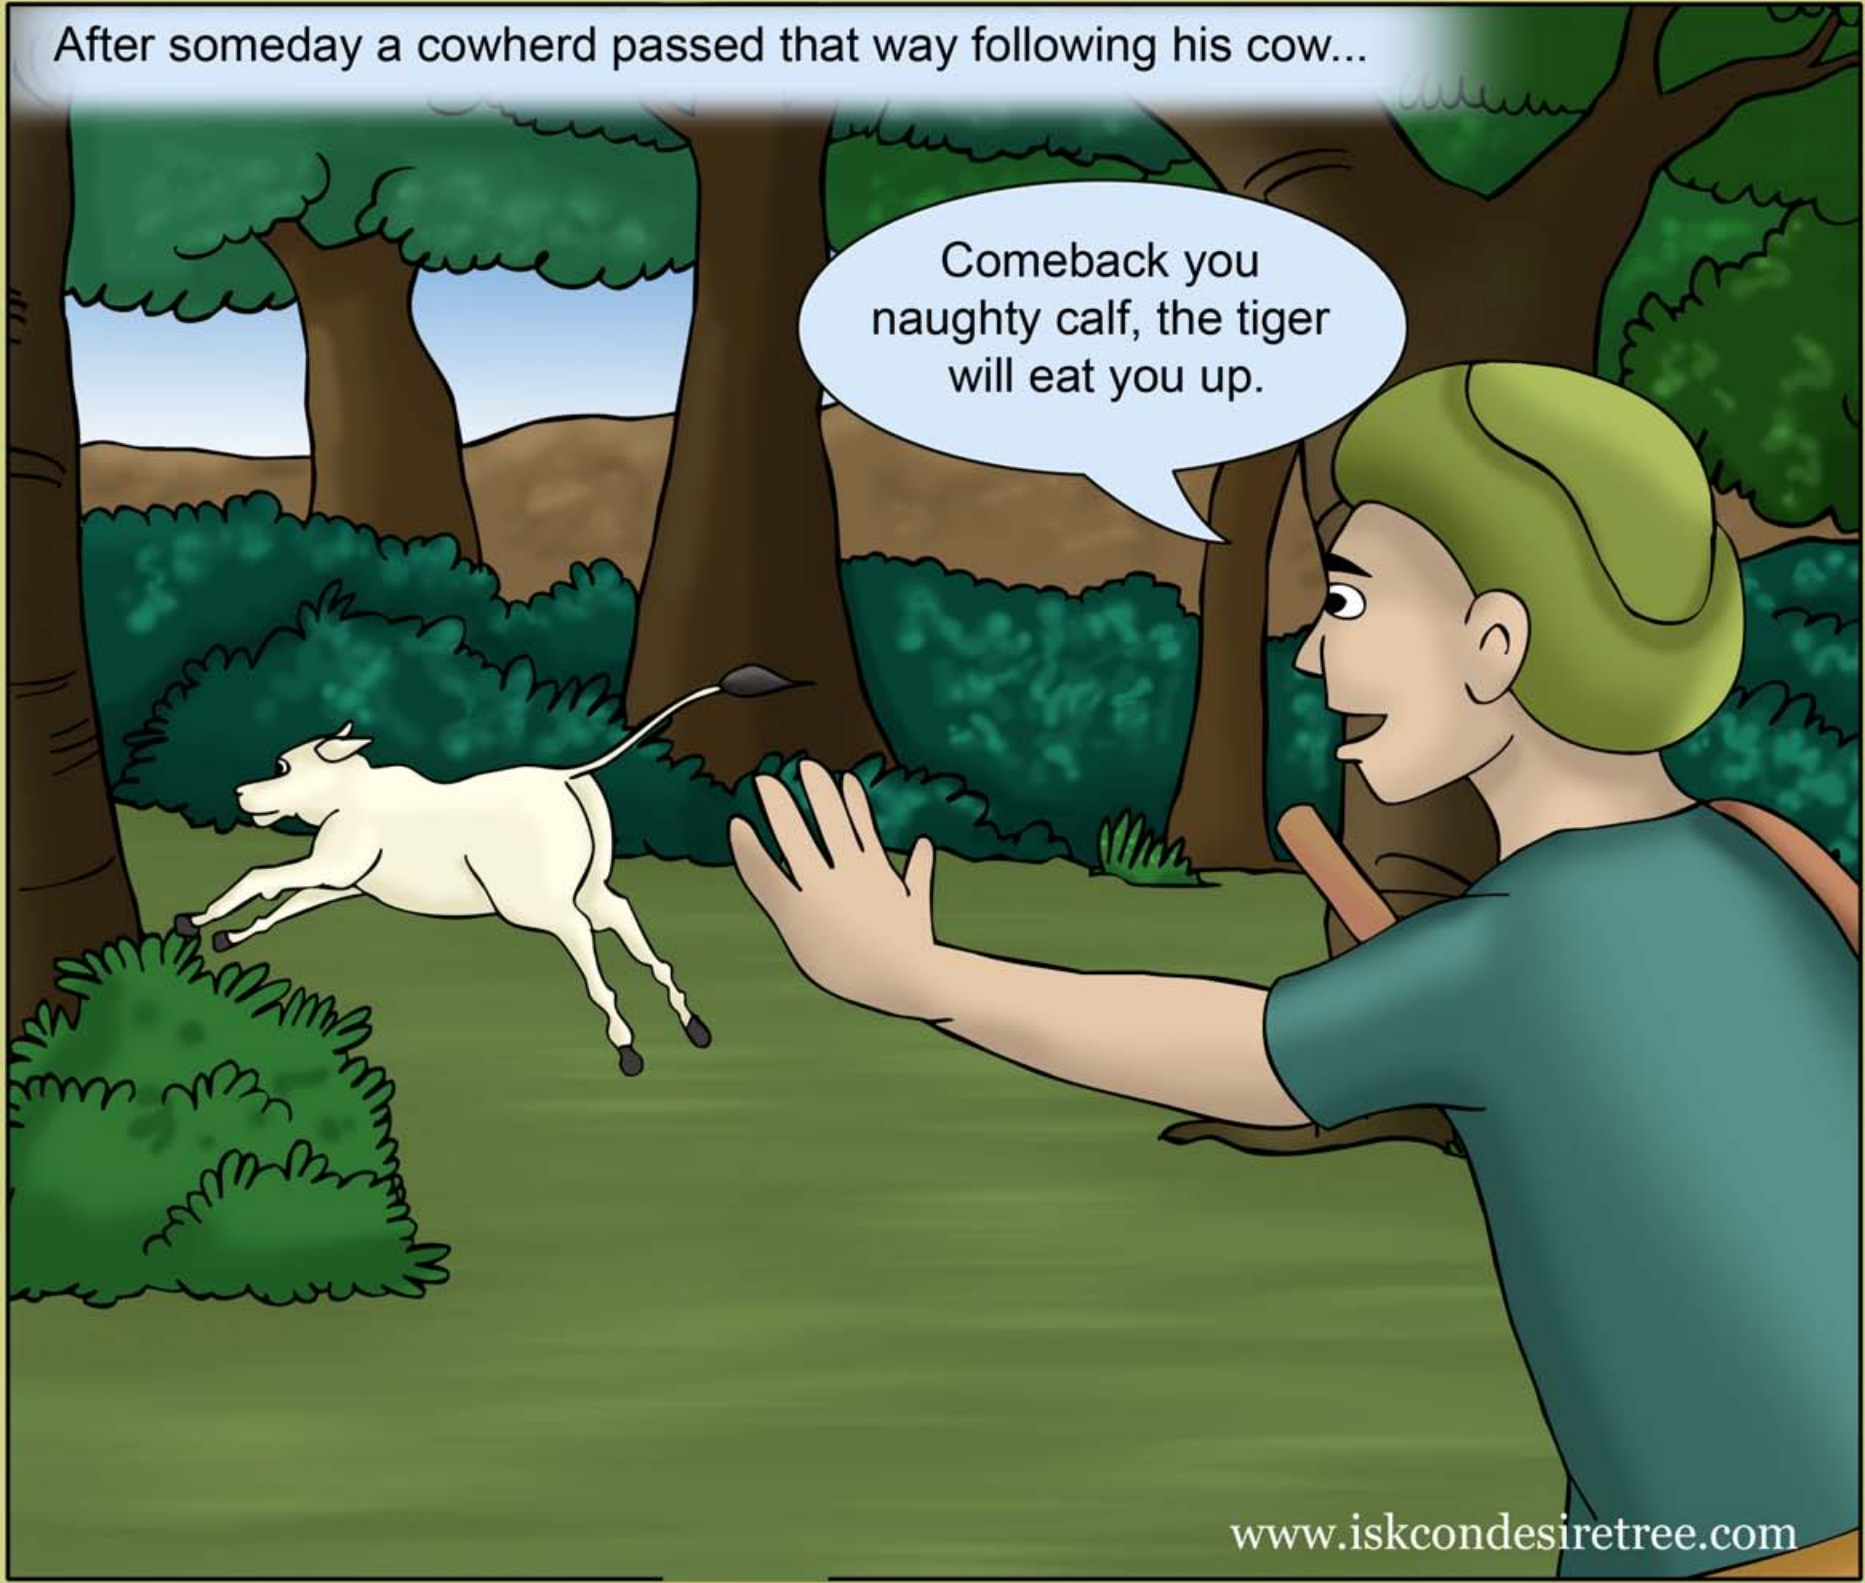

Soon the area became clean and the air became fresh!

After someday a cowherd passed that way following his cow...

Comeback you
naughty calf, the tiger
will eat you up.

Following the calf, the villager entered into the forest. While searching his calf he thought....

There is not a single footprint of any wild animals.

The next day he came with his family members to show his newly discovered property.

They found that the land was very good for cultivation.

Have you listen
what are they planning ?

Yes, it is very sad! Therefore I had told you not to drive
out the beasts.

Yes, you are right. We must cut these huge trees.

Gradully all the trees were cut...

...including the two big trees.

Moral: Better to tolerate some inconvenience in this material world.